The article is generally well designed.

Add Chinhoyi Caves to keywords.

A high percentage of references are more than 10 years old, seek to update a higher proportion of recent years.

It is desirable to have one general research objective and no more than three specific objectives.

Why was it chosen to interview only 15 tourists? Figures should be given for the number of visitors per year or daily average, high and low season.

Add a table of the classification of impacts and activities taking place in the cave.

Proportionally, the third objective is little analysed. The strategies should be enriched.
