

Review of: "Beyond Boundaries: Exploring Livability in Diverse CPTED-Enhanced Neighbourhoods of Bengaluru"

Keya Chakraborty¹

¹ Srishti Institute of Art Design and Technology

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The topic on CPTED is quite interesting as a context. Authors tried to develop a correlation of the same with the concept livability. But the major observations of this paper are as follows:

1. The analysis is very basic level at this point which doesn't lead to any concrete interferences to CPTED principles.
2. There is no explanation of sampling method from the case study area and who are the respondents
3. How the inferences from this research would be incorporated in the urban design – not been discussed and
4. What are concerns to follow the CPTED principles or the livability criteria (because of which the variance developed) in the urban fabric or the case study areas not explored well.