Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

- The study has shortcomings in literature review and econometric modeling. The literature review should be updated and systematically arranged.
- The study has missed the important variables of monetary policy like exchange rates, lending rates, private sector credit, and independence of monetary policy, i.e., internal/external liberalization.
- Policy implications are not clearly explained; what actions should be taken by policymakers?
- Justification of methodology selection is compulsory.
- The reference section is not consistent with respect to text citation and end references.
- In the appendix, tables are just copied and pasted from statistical software.
- The overall study needs major revisions.
