Thank you for the opportunity to review your article. I believe that the article addresses a relevant topic that could contribute to the literature. However, despite the undeniable importance of the topic and relevance of the study, it seems to me that the article still lacks clearer definitions of the concepts, and what inclusive business, business ecosystems and entrepreneurial ecosystems are sometimes confusing. A clearer approach can contribute more to reaching the end of the study with a better definition of your model. It also seems to me that it is necessary to better understand the context of developing countries, there are many particularities of these countries, especially when we talk about the economy and agribusiness. It was a pleasure to be able to appreciate the research idea, and good luck in your research!!!
