

Review of: "Does a 'Creativity Crisis' Truly Exist Among Science Learners?"

Ozden Sengul¹

¹ Bogazici University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This paper is well-organized with introduction, literature review, methodology, results, and discussion section. However, the content of the literature review should be detailed. The authors should clearly describe the data analysis procedures. One important thing was the quantification of interview responses. The researchers should clearly explain how and why they quantified the interview responses. A well written discussion section should be added to explain the relationship between self-efficacy, intrinsic motivation, and grit! I hope these comments help to revise the paper!