

Review of: "Sociodemographic Determinants of Gender Disparity in Dengue Fever Diagnosis and Treatment"

Hari Kishan Boorugu

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

While the intention and work done by Danish Kumar et al. are commendable, the methodology appears to be flawed. If we wish to study gender disparities in seeking health care, we need to do a community-based study and not a hospital-based one! This hospital-based study is appropriate to assess delay in presentation, outcomes, etc. The article is well-written, clear, and describes a number of limitations of the study.