Hi, relevant article on a still current issue. The methodology is clear, and the descriptive results are rationale. As advice, you can :

- Write a formal research question and justify this question, adding managerial and theoretical interest to this question
- In the conclusion, you will have to answer clearly to this question
- It could be an improvement to add a managerial implication of your work. How decision makers in the field (politics, medicine, local authorities..) could use your results to provide concrete actions for the population.

Otherwise, it is clear and publishable, in my opinion. Good job.
