Dear Author,

I have several comments for the current version of the manuscript.

1. The p-value criterion mentioned in the abstract section is not consistent with the Results section of the manuscript.
2. The manuscript also lacks foundational theory that clarifies how you could form the current hypothesized model.
3. The author should also recheck the correctness of the numbers in Table 1 (e.g., Composite reliability).
4. The discussion section should also be enriched with the manuscript's contribution from both a theoretical and practical perspective.

Thank you, and I wish you luck with your scientific journey.
