Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

My primary concern is that the document appears to have the characteristics of a business plan rather than a research article.

While the document acknowledges various threats and challenges, such as competitors and customer engagement, the level of analysis provided remains inadequate. A comprehensive business plan necessitates not only the identification of potential obstacles but also the formulation of strategies to effectively mitigate them.

The document briefly touches upon certain financial aspects such as salaries, it fails to present a comprehensive financial projection encompassing revenue, costs, and profitability. A meticulously crafted business plan should incorporate detailed financial projections to substantiate the viability and potential success of the proposed business venture.

The document briefly references the popularity of K-Pop and C-Pop and the associated business opportunities, it lacks a thorough market analysis. A comprehensive evaluation of the market should encompass factors such as market size, growth rate, and customer demographics.

Lastly, the Conclusion section of the document appears to be inadequately developed. A well-written conclusion should effectively summarize the main points presented throughout the document and explicitly state the subsequent steps or recommendations.
