Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

There is no detailed explanation of the research methodology. The author only mentions that: "The research methodology depends on the social science approach suggested by Guba and his associates."

There is no further explanation to clarify the data contained in the tables, making it difficult for readers to understand what the data means.

The limitations subsection is at the end, even though it should be placed before the research objectives.

The distribution of participants is not evenly distributed by gender, and the reasons are not explained. Is it because the number of women within the specified criteria is such a number, or is there another reason?
