

Review of: "Design of an Educational Campaign Based on the Theory of Planned Behavior to Encourage People to Donate Organs: A Study Protocol"

Kazem Hosseinzadeh

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

I read the study protocol; it seems like excellent work in the health education aspect. It is noticeable that some concerns exist in order to improve the paper as follows:

Title: An educational campaign based on the theory of planned behavior for organ transplantation: a study protocol

Introduction: No description deals with the suitability of TBP in proportion to other behavior change models.

Methods: Good. However, it is noticeable that the type of organ is a key determinant in this regard.

Findings, Discussion: GOOD