Review of: "American Higher Education Curricula in 19th Century"

Vijay K Agrawal

1 University of Nebraska, Kearney

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

It is a good review and compilation of the literature on the very current and important topic which is being discussed across the globe seriously. The matter of skill gaps between the need of employers and the university graduates, is being widely discussed, and addressed at various levels.