This paper is timely as it attempts to explore some various IT trends that can be adopted in tertiary institutions. However, it is imperative to state that the authors of the article should do the following:

1. The second sentence of the Abstract should be rephrase to enhance precision and clarity.
2. The concept "IT trends" should be replaced with "Emerging technologies, Cutting-edge technologies or High-end technologies." This will give the paper a wider coverage and acceptability.
3. The authors should avoid using commas after the initial of the first author in citations with two or more authors.
4. The work still requires a thorough grammatical reviewing in order to enhance the flow of thoughts and swift expression of the authors' ideas.
