Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

- The abstract is very short; it should give an idea about the work through a small paragraph.
- It would be better if you added an introduction after the abstract to give more information about your work and the next sections that we can find in your document.
- Titles and content distribution: We observe that the first section "1 ECaSS (R)" is represented in 04 pages; on the other side, the second section "Nanogate capacitor" is represented in a small paragraph. It's better to distribute the content in a balanced way. Also, the first section "1 ECaSS (R)" should contain subtitles/subsections instead of representing it in a long paragraph, in order to give more ideas sequence.
- The references should be recent to give more credibility to your work, because since 1999 technology was highly developed and many pieces of information have been updated.
