

Review of: "Design of an intelligent controller for improving the solar system efficiency"

B. Kavya Santhoshi

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

I found the article on the design of an intelligent controller for improving solar system efficiency to be quite impressive. The incorporation of intelligent control mechanisms seems like a promising approach to enhance overall efficiency in solar systems. The discussion on how these controllers work and their potential impact is enlightening. Overall, a well-presented and informative read.