The idea behind the paper is interesting, intriguing, and mindful; however, the following review comments should be considered by the authors-

1. Follow the proper headings format for the article.
2. Use tables when talking about the past studies in section 2 (Main content).
3. The hypotheses presented by the authors seem incomplete. I completely understand that there would have been a word count; however, the author(s) could have summed up the content in para 3 under the heading Discussion by the use of just one word, cross-relativity; and then they could have gone on to explain their hypotheses. The lack of explanation on the said hypotheses makes the whole point of this article seem incomplete.
