In general, the article gives clear picture of the Speaking skills implemented in the Virtual world. In addition, the article is too tense and there are too many facts and information irrelevant for the audience,more precisely the reader. The author goes into too many specific info without real examples. I suggest summarising the main points, and more focus on the topic. In addition the research part is good, but it also needs revision because it's too long and rather confusing.

In conclusion, I suggest revision of the main part with possibly of summarising or excluding not important facts and info that is not directly related to the topic.
