The article aims to explore the interconnection between megatrends analysis, future research, and the role of think tanks.

This paper is interesting and the topic is relevant. However, it needs a lot of work and the following critical remarks can be presented:

1. The manuscript lacks a clear statement of objectives or research questions and on the previous research gaps.
2. Start explaining briefly what is a think tank, its functions and its usefulness for other companies and for society in the introduction.
3. Put more emphasis in the literature review of this paper
4. Be careful because in your assumption because the sample is not representative
5. Put more references in sections 3 about definition and evolution of megatrends analysis
6. Explain better the methodology used in the paper
7. This article needs to be built according to the elements of a scientific article: abstract, introduction, theoretical framework, methodology, data analysis, conclusions/discussion and references.
8. The paper does not add much to the discussion of futures thinking or literacy.
