

Review of: "Why Should Urbanites be Earth/Geosciences Literate?"

Belkacem Lahmar

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The article is very interesting and proposes a novel and important viewpoint for geoscience, and I agree with the main message of the article. However, it is written in a very general way. Also, Much of the paper consists of definitions that distract readers from the main topic and make it somehow unclear.

This is a very relevant topic and it is very important to talk about.

The manuscript itself is very small (3000 words) including references, I highly suggest rewriting the manuscript in more detail, especially the literature review part, and re-submission of the manuscript as an Opinion article.