An important issue is covered in the research. However, authors should rewrite the findings and discussion sections of the article. Both tables and graphs should not be given for the same data. The number of references should be increased and it is recommended to write in accordance with the spelling rules.