

Review of: "[Research Note] Dengue – Therapeutic Efforts in Mexico"

Juan Camilo Galvis¹

¹ Universidad Tecnológica de Pereira

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

It is an interesting writing that summarizes novel alternatives to control dengue in a highly endemic country such as Mexico. It has the ideal length to become an informative note for the general public, in which case it should use less technical language; or on the other hand, it could become an excellent review article if more references were included and those presented were described much better.