

Review of: "Medical students' disease status of COVID-19: A multicenter study"

Luis Gaitan Cepeda¹

¹ Universidad Nacional Autónoma de México

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Regarding the paper titled "Medical students' disease status of COVID-19: A multicenter study" The text is well written, coherent and provides useful data about the risk of health care students, specifically those with clinical training, of contracting COVID, although it could be applied to any other infectious disease.

The only recommendation to the authors is to try to expand the results with sociodemographic information, age, gender, etc, that could enrich the associations.

Thank you very much for allowing me to read and comment on this interesting article.