

Review of: "Willingness-to-pay for health insurance: A comparative study between formal and informal health-workers"

Michael Iskedjian

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The paper is easy to read, scientifically sound and sufficiently detailed. However, it is more a research protocol than a research paper. This should constitute Part I: Research Protocol and Scientific Approach, and another paper should be prepared and submitted as Part II: Research Findings, which should include both the findings and a through discussion on the limitations of the research. Another review would then be performed on the entire work.