The article worth of publishing as the topic selected is one of the most important issues to address, yet the article should be resubmit after incorporating the following points:

- 1- There are excessive self citation observed. It could be rather replaced by some of the research articles published on addressing the similar issues, such as <https://www.sciencedirect.com/science/article/abs/pii/S0956053X15301227>
- 2- The statistical method are not clearly mentioned in the methodology part e.g. The partial least squares regression (PLS) model is just mentioned by name. It is thus required to use / implement the same if required in the methodology section and then should be discussed.
- 3- The Comparison of the result should be made with any latest article published on the closely related to the same issue / topic.
- 4- The article should be accepted once receive the incorporation of the points mentioned above.
