

Review of: "In-Vitro Antibacterial Activity of some Ganoderma Species: A Review"

Farida Bendali¹

¹ Université de Béjaia

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The review is interesting and constitutes a scientific database for future investigations.

General remarks

I think it's better to describe the genus and species than to speak on their beneficial health effects on diabetes and DFU.

So the section related to Diabetic Foot Ulcer must be under the section describing the species.

In the part describing the effects of the plant on diabetes, I think there is a lack of its effect on wound healing and immune modulation.

Many grammatical errors were detected; the document must be checked for English spelling.

Table 1 must be introduced in the text before its appearance.

Table 1 must appear on one page. It must be fractioned into many parts.

References must be checked.