The title and scope of the study are interesting. However, some elements of the article can be strengthened. First, a good abstract should reflect the content that gives the audience an overview of your work. In this paper, the problem statement is not adequately justified. For further improvement, the author should highlight the research gap (What is known, what is unknown) and the study's importance. The method could be better presented/supported by a research framework. I suggest the authors emphasize the technical side (methodology) of the research you have carried out.
