

Review of: "Sustainable TOURISM: win-win-win papakonstantinidis model"

Fauziah Eddyono¹

¹ Universitas Sahid Jakarta

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This research is very interesting because it has tried to find a way out through a win-win solution to the interests of tourism companies and local communities and the role of local communities in managing and developing tourism destinations in a sustainable manner. However, there is one indicator that is not involved in finding a win-win solution, namely environmental sustainability solutions, especially the natural environment. I think in finding it is necessary to include indicators of sustainability which are the responsibility of tourism entrepreneurs and local communities, at least discussed in the discussion.