Overall, the content of the article is consistent with the proposal mentioned in the abstract, and the topic is of great importance today.

I suggest inserting the study objective at the end of the introduction and repeating it in the abstract.

There is a need to mention the review methodology, organize the studies/sources used, and reference them throughout the text.

I believe that organizing the sections will make it easier to review the subtitles. Some of these are repeated throughout the article, such as "Loneliness in the Digital Age: The Role of Social Media and Technology" and "Role of Technology and Social Media in Shaping Loneliness." (Note: The repetition of these titles is intentional and may not need correction depending on context.)

The article manages to address the consequences of loneliness on mental health and well-being and also points out recommendations of extreme importance in the field of public health, which makes it relevant.

Thank you for the opportunity to review it.
