This is a well written high-level review of the centenarian studies. It would be nice if the author includes a table comparing different studies. Also need to write a section on the strengths and draw backs of each of the study. Conclusion section should be expanded to include lessons learnt and future directions. As there would be a massive global growth in the older age group in the next 50 years, author should explain how the insights from the centenarian studies can be used to address the future challenges.
