

Review of: "Unlocking Success in NGOs: The Power of Servant Leadership"

Cristóbal Fernández-Muñoz<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Universidad Complutense de Madrid

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The findings of this study contribute to a better comprehension of Servant Leadership as a key influence factor for successful NGOs. The study examines the effect of servant leadership on project success, and the findings provide strong evidence of a positive relationship. The article provides important implications for research, practice, and society.

In addition to what has already been expressed by other reviewers, it is extremely important to underline the importance of communication, both at a personal and organizational level, internally and externally, develop proper skills, best practices, areas for improvement, etc...

Effective and open communication is nowadays essential to talk about success and leadership in all kind of organizations, and this article does not devote a main axis about it, neither digital or even offline.

We recommend placing greater emphasis on this aspect in order to be able to offer results of greater interest from a scientific point of view and for the effectiveness of non-governmental organizations.