

Review of: "Non-revenue Water Reduction"

F.R.S. Tampubolon¹

¹ Bogor Agricultural University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Data processing with a decision-making support system should include a comparative flow diagram of the data obtained. For example, from several areas that have been observed, several points are then made, and from these points, a conclusion is drawn as to which area is the best and safest. This will identify areas of high usage or potential waste and implement demand management strategies.