

Review of: "Digital Mapping of Resilience and Academic Skills in the Perspective of Society 5.0 for Higher Education Level Students"

Fathmath Shadiya¹

¹ Maldives National University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Comments

Give readers a little bit of background on what industrial revolution 4.0 and Society 5.0 is in the introduction.

This sentence is unclear "According to Werner (1993), successful students have confidence in themselves that there is meaning in life after hardships and hardships."

The following sentence's grammar needs revising.

"From the results of research conducted on 137 students from various campuses in the city of Bandung, which were born in the time range from May to June 2022, it is shown that the ability of these students to overcome various obstacles and difficulties experienced during online learning is generally in the high category."

"Alva (1991) describes resilient students as individuals who maintain and maintain their motivation and performance even when faced with stressful situations or situations that have the potential to reduce learning performance."

It is better to have the conclusion written in a paragraph to keep consistency with the rest of the paper.