

Review of: "Applying Behaviour Change Theory to Understand PhD Supervisors' Barriers and Enablers to Supporting PhD Students with Academic and Other-Sector Careers"

Farzad Rostami¹

¹ Islamic Azad University, Bonab Branch

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The topic has the potentiality of being published within the current great results. However, the author performed in a method in which there are no clues of data analysis approaches. Meanwhile, the discussion and conclusion are wavering and need to be presented separately.

The authors must specify a subheading in methods and present how the data are analysed and point to the validity and reliability of findings.

Moreover, a heading of Conclusion is required. Authors must summarize the findings there, suggest further studies, and mention limitations.