

Review of: "Road Safety Perceptions and Practices among Undergraduate Medical Students"

Woon Kim

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This is an interesting article but can be improved further. I wonder why medical students were selected for this study. If any particular reason exists, it would be helpful to address it in the article along with a bit more detail about sample (e.g., recruitment method). Also, in the discussion, it is recommended to include some insights or thoughts about findings in comparison to other studies (e.g., if differed from other studies' findings, providing some thoughts about why it might occur), rather than simply listing relevant literature.