

Review of: "Lived Experience of School Leaders in Supervising during Remote Teaching"

Rofiq Noorman Haryadi

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Overall, this article is a robust piece of research with a strong methodological approach, thorough data analysis, and significant contributions to the understanding of school leadership in the context of remote learning. However, it is also important to consider other aspects such as the generalizability of the results, limitations of the research, and potential biases in data interpretation.