

Review of: "The Correlation between Poverty and Crime in Pakistan"

Williams Gilberto Jiménez García¹

¹ Universidad Nacional de Colombia

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Article Writing Quality

The article's writing is clear and well-structured, allowing readers to quickly grasp the complex relationship between poverty and crime in Pakistan. However, the narrative could benefit from improved cohesion between sections to ensure smoother transitions that directly link the multifaceted causes of poverty to their effects on crime. A deeper analysis and discussion on how each factor contributes explicitly to criminal behavior would enrich the narrative and provide a more nuanced understanding of the issue.

Article Originality

The article tackles a highly relevant topic with a comprehensive approach, considering many factors that link poverty to crime. While the relationship between poverty and crime has been extensively studied, this work attempts to contextualize the issue specifically within Pakistan's socioeconomic and political environment. To enhance the article's originality, exploring less researched dimensions, such as the impact of specific interventions in Pakistan or comparative analysis with other countries facing similar challenges, is recommended.

Article Potential

This article has significant potential to contribute to the academic and policy de