

Review of: "Women In Slum Risking Their Safety To Access And Usage Of Basic Water And Sanitation Facilities"

Hira Tariq<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Aga Khan University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Dear Author,

The article is an excellent depiction of the hurdles faced by the women in accessing and using basic water and sanitation facilities

i shall provide comprehensive review of each domain

Introduction:

the introduction was well written, starting with the basic understanding of the problem and then relating it to different problems faced by women and at different times and regions.

The write-up was catchy and clear. It kept me engaged in reading further

Literature Search

Literature search was thorough and majority of the cited references from past 5 years with some 20% dating back to 10 years or so. so this was a positive point and is better highlighting current situation.

The methodology was clear. the extraction tables provided exact findings and relevant study sample and region of data

Results: the results of the studies were aggregated in a proper way and presented graphically which were easy to understand

Discussion: discussion pointed out different problems that exists in the society creating hurdles for women and the policies that are in place

Conclusion: the conclusion summarized the findings in a justifiable and summarized way overall the write-up was very good and informative and alot of hard work was put in combining it

