

Review of: "A Comprehensive Examination of the Practice of Outsourcing within the Framework of International Business in the Contemporary Era of the 21st Century"

Adriana Dima¹

¹ Academia de Studii Economice din Bucuresti

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Review for the paper "A Comprehensive Examination of the Practice of Outsourcing within the Framework of International Business in the Contemporary Era of the 21st Century":

This article addresses an intriguing and relevant topic that certainly warrants further investigation. However, there are a few key areas that need improvement. First and foremost, the paper requires a thorough proofreading to eliminate any grammatical or typographical errors.

Moreover, the paper's current version lacks a clear and concise approach to identifying the existing gaps in the literature. It is essential to delineate these gaps more precisely and explain how the paper intends to address them. The current presentation is somewhat generalized, lacking a focused trajectory in terms of objectives and research questions, which may leave readers uncertain about the paper's specific contributions.

While the topic is undeniably promising, the paper occasionally assumes a somewhat journalistic tone. It could benefit from a more academic and research-oriented approach that emphasizes the comparative relevance of outsourcing within the context of academic inquiry.

Additionally, the paper should explore established relationships irrespective of the chosen research methodology to enhance the comprehensiveness of the study.

Lastly, it is crucial to present recommendations systematically and clearly for the readers' benefit.

In summary, this paper possesses great potential but requires significant refinement in terms of clarity, focus, and academic rigor. Addressing these issues will undoubtedly enhance the paper's overall quality and impact.