The manuscript has got an theoretical character, where authors are focused on the analysis of the articles selected from the databases. The text is divided into subchapters typical for this kind of study. The text is written in understandable form. I have got some comments, which have got kind of minor character. They are presented below.

1. The first comment is regarding to methodology. Please explain, on the basis of what the databases were chosen,
2. The second comment is regarding to article choosing. How authors solved the problem, if the article was published in more than one database? And in this kind of study is important to select dominant database.
3. Please add chapter regarding to analysis of data
4. Please revise the References according guidelines for authors.

I hope my comments are helpful
