Review of: "Lexico-Syntactic Study of English Usage in Online News Responses and Their Implications for 21st-Century Pedagogy"

Gabriel Valdés-León[1]

1 Universidad de Las Palmas de Gran Canaria

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The topic is interesting. However, there are two aspects that, from my perspective, the authors should strengthen: the methodology and the corpus. The first one requires more detail regarding the procedure and the criteria adopted; as for the corpus, they should expand it if they are looking for an impact journal. Regarding the latter, they could consider simplifying the analysis by using artificial intelligence.