

Review of: "Agritourism: a source for socio-economic transformation in developing economies"

Thi Kim Trang Le

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The study analyzed the current situation and potential for tourism development in countries worldwide. However, this article only stops at an overview of agritourism, and the author has not stated the research purpose and specific methods to solve the problem. Therefore, some suggestion is given for improving it better.

- Defining the problems that the author wants to solve
- Setting the objective, scope, originality/value of the research
- Identify practicality and/or research implications
- Determine the appropriate methodology to analyze and solve the problem
- Adding the literature on methodology and research problems