

Review of: "[Case Report] A Rare Case of Carcinoma Erysipeloides After TNBC Mastectomy: Challenges in Diagnosis and Implications for Treatment"

Asif Loya¹

¹ Shaukat Khanum Memorial Cancer Hospital and Research Centre

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Nice and informative case report. However, the information provided is not new. It is quite common for patients to undergo FNA or biopsy of cutaneous nodules to diagnose possible cutaneous recurrence. A lot of literature is available on the same topic. Perhaps the authors should be asked to elaborate further on the PET CT aspect of misdiagnosis in this context, and perhaps the case report should be titled and explained as such.