

Review of: "The Cost of Being a Celebrity on Mental Health"

Monika Jimenez-Morales<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> University Pompeu Fabra

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Thank you for giving me the opportunity to review the article. Although the topic is very interesting and absolutely relevant, given the little scientific research that exists, I regret to say that the text does not meet the minimum requirements to be considered a scientific article.

In that sense, I recommend the authors to add a rigorous and updated theoretical framework with references according to the object of study. On the other hand, given that the article does not propose a scientific methodology that rigorously and consistently explains the results, I recommend that the authors redo the study using methodologies that allow us to understand the results and, if appropriate, replicate the study with larger samples.

Publication of the article within the current parameters is not recommended. In any case, I congratulate the authors for addressing such a relevant issue and encourage them to explore this interesting topic further and provide relevant data.