Thanks for this article, overall this is a super interested and well written commentary, it discussed an important issue of medical tele-education which become primary in COVID-19 pandemic and persist during the post COVID era. The authors demonstrated using of tele-education in various specialties and in different countries. Also, clarified various challenges faced the students during their distant education but need to add the challenge of assessment in using tele-education in medicine, and how they overcome it. One-bit thing the word tele educational in the end of introduction and in the discussion are needed to be corrected to tele-educational
