Nowadays, this topic is important and attractive. However, the article needs more effort to benefit the scientific community. I suggest the following to improve its quality and presentation:

- 1- Expand the introduction to include the findings of recently related published article from other countries to show the experience of other countries before making the comparative study. List the newly cited sources at the end of the article as usual.
- 2- Add a detailed flowchart for the methodology to enable juniors to repeat your study is needed.
- 3- Show the novelty of your contribution and what is the added value to the existing knowledge.
- 4- close the introduction by two paragraphs, out to identify/outline the research gap and the second to identify/state the scope of the article.
- 5- If the figures/tables are not yours, please cite the source and clear the copyright if any of them is/are protected.
