

Review of: "Retinal Vasculitis Following COVID-19 Infection: A Systematic Review"

Madhurima Roy

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Dear Authors & Publishers,

Thank you for the invitation.

There are a few points you should note

1. In the methods, you have included only case reports and case series. For a systematic review, more papers should be included, and those mostly from indexed journals. Also, anterior uveitis and optic neuropathies are different ocular findings from vasculitis, so there is no need to mention them as you are conducting a systematic review of vasculitis only.
2. Overall, the language should be corrected, and too many grammatical errors are present.
3. The conclusion is not at all conclusive. There is no difference in the treatment protocol from non-infectious vasculitis.
4. The exact duration of this review is not mentioned from start to end. Kindly mention it.
5. The discussion should be more detailed. Like after treatment, how much change in vision, any co-morbidities, there should be a flowchart of that.
6. More references should be added.

All the best.