

Review of: "The Failure of Public Water Utility Privatization From Araral's Perspective: Implications for Ethiopia's Water Sector"

M.M. Michalak¹

¹ University of Lodz

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The title of the text suggests that it consists of two main elements – first the review of Professor Araral's article titled "The failure of water utilities privatization: Synthesis of evidence, analysis and implications" and second – indicating its implications for Ethiopia. The first part of the assumed task is presented in an interesting and coherent way (most of the article consists in a description of the arguments used by Professor Araral for considering water privatization reform as failure. However, the text does not add much to the existing state of art, does not provide additional evidence or information regarding the reviewed article and as a result the element of novelty (and a real added value) is missing. The second part of the task assumed by the author is much poorer than the first one and should be enriched. Only in case of its development the article should be published in Qeios.

The article needs English language proof reading.