Dear Editorial team and Authors of this article, I am very grateful to have been considered to review this article. In general, the article brings relevant information about Solanum nigrum; nevertheless, I suggest the following:

In the research methodology section, authors should consider adding the time span reviewed.

Spelling check: some scientific names are incorrect.

The authors should consider rewriting the section "Detailed pharmacological and therapeutic potentials," as the scientific articles indicate a different form of wording.

Some tables may be added in order to summarize the information.
