1. The objectives of the study and the structure of the paper can be included together at the end of the introductory paragraph. It's important to guide the reader on the whole idea of this study.
2. The reviewer suggests that the author rephrase the objective of the study by not entering every variable to be studied. Please refer to the method of objective writing of the study through the selected journal where the objective is generally stated and does not include the variable in detail.
3. Literature is not done comprehensively. It looks very loose and doesn't help in conceptual framework formation. Suddenly, the author has built a conceptual framework without discussing literature in detail.
4. Overall, major corrections need to be made to guarantee the quality of the study and the production of good research papers.
