Dear Author,

The paper adds much-needed insight to the much under-researched topic of people with disabilities experiencing sexuality.

But the present draft lacks much important information that helps to review this manuscript. Kindly address the points written below:

Mention the category of research article, whether it is an Original, Theoretical, or Method article.

Are the stories provided in this written after IDI, FGD, or telephonic interview?

Was consent taken from the individuals of whom the stories are published?

Was assent from their family received?

No guideline or reference is given for the discussed laws.

The authors should be careful with the selection of words, as words like Ivana's model body and Marco's horrible, endlessly argumentative character breach the sensitivity of the topic.
